Father Darkleaf

BY CALVIN ROBINSON

Greetings from Martha St., Flag Day, '76. The national debt is not the only thing growing, for things are going on in my modest garden spot. Take Sunday dinner, for example. Had lettuce from my garden, first I have ever harvested. Did not plant many vegetables but should have lots of glads. But it is so dry, as of the moment. We need a long drizzle of rain. Day long drizzles of rain are better than gulley-washers. Worked out that I planted too many radishes, for I am the only one at our table who eats 'em.

* * *

Doris Eagle, one of the fine employees at a local food store, brought us a garden ripe tomato. Perfect, and thanks. There is always a race to see who has the first garden harvest and we proclaim her a winner.

* * *

Heavens to Betsy, sometimes up on the main highway, I see automobile drivers driving in three directions . . . hither, thither and yon. I rather think fifty miles an hour is enough, for just consider what Stonewall Jackson could have done had he been able to move his troops that fast! I aim to stay off the highways on holidays and such to avoid heavy traffic. To maneuver in such is like trying to balance a catfish on the end of your nose.

* * *

Fathers' Day is coming up. Remember and make His Day something special.

* * *

Robert I. Scott, Jr. is a great fan of the Cleveland Indians of the American Baseball League, and them thar Indians are in second place, and coming on strong.

* * *

One of the great political leaders of our time was James A. Farley, of New York. Postmaster General in FDR's cabinet for eight years and upon reading of his death last week I recalled that I met him once and later he mailed me a complimentary copy of his book, Behind the Ballots. Autographed "To Calvin Robinson" and in the green ink he always used. He had the gift of remembering names, faces and even addresses, which is an asset to anyone.

* * *

Congratulations to Mrs. Sudie Howe for making a "hole in one" on the local golf course, the first lady to achieve same. Ah yes, once I hit a tee shot on the Exmore Country Club course in old Accomack and it became still on the lip of the cup. Golf is a great game and good luck.

* * *

My long-time friend, Mrs. Rachel Lawson, brought me some newspapers from her recent trip to Sandusky, Ohio. Say, the FREE-PRESS is a great newspaper, and everyone knows I delight in reading newspapers, especially The Times-Virginian.

* * *

So mout it be, but the housefly rarely wins a popularity contest. Get shed of'em anyway you can think of. One disturbed my period of meditation yesterday and I tracked down the intruder and simple services were held on the back porch. All things created have their rights, but a housefly has no right on the tip of my nose.

* * *

Please read all the ads in this fine newspaper. I do. I cannot patronize all the advertisers, but I keep'em in mind when their services are needed. Went over and purchased an order of assorted paint, and am working on my back porch. Red, beige and white . . . and a new brush, no less.

* * *

Space for a quickie . . . okeh . . . you do better by walking beside friends than trying to run them into a ditch. Appomattox prospers by teamwork, and YOU are on the team. Thanks for reading and seeya next week.

George F. Abbitt, Jr.

Benjamin H. Marshall

Will Head Area Quiet Campaign For Virginia Baptist Hospital

George F. Abbitt, Jr., Tenth Judical Circuit Judge, and Benjamin H. Marshall, Marshall's Department Store owner, are co-chairmen in the Appomattox area of the Virginia Baptist Hospital's quiet campaign. "A Time of Golden Opportunity". Working with Abbitt and Marshall are J. B. Drinkard, Jr. and Raymond Jamerson.

Abbitt, Marshall, Drinkard and Jamerson will all be working under the direction of L. Jack Esteppe, who is the General chairman of the campaign. The campaign is being conducted on an individual basis to raise approximately $25,000 in the Appomattox area towards the minimum goal of $600,000 for the Multi-purpose Building at the hospital.

The hospital received a $290,000 challenge grant from the English Foundation in Altavista and is seeking funds from the immediate service area, the "fringe" area and Baptists across the state.

The L-shaped building, which will be located on the back campus of the hospital between the Mundy Building and the School of Nursing, will house 24 psychiatric beds, 38 skilled care beds and 28 self-care beds.

The new concept in patient care will help alleviate the space problem presently at the hospital. The inability to readily gain admission to the hospital is an unfortunate fact that we have learned to live with for several years. The backlog of patients waiting for admission to the institution at various times during the year is quite large. The cause extends from a progressive backlog of patients waiting for transfer into a lesser level of hospital care, such as skilled nursing.

A survey recently conducted revealed that there were 20 patients per day currently occupying a medical/surgical bed. These patients were in need of a lesser level of care than that which was provided.

With over 2,000 patients being transferred away from the hospital annually, there is definitely a problem. It costs approximately $45,000 for construction of an acute-care room and only $15,000 for the motel-type room that will be used in the Multi-purpose building.

Judge Abbitt is a native Virginian, and is a graduate of the University of Richmond, and the T.C.Williams School of Law. He previously served as chairman of the Appomattox County Board of Supervisors and as the Appomattox County Commonwealth Attorney.

Judge Abbitt is past president of the Fifth Judicial Circuit Bar Association and the Virginia State Bar Association. He is a member of the Virginia Baptist Hospital Board of Trustees and is past President of both the Appomattox Lions Club and the Appomattox Ruritan Club.

He and his wife, Josephine, have two children and are members of Liberty Baptist Church.

"Ben" Marshall is also a member of the hospital Board of Trustees. He is a native of Charleston, W. Va. and attended Marshall University and West Virginia University in Morgantown.

Mr. Marshall served in the U. S. Air Force from 1950-1955 and was a pilot. His rank was 1st Lieutenant.

Marshall is a former member of the Appomattox Jaycees and served as vice-president. He is a charter member and on the Board of Directors of the Appomattox County Chamber of Commerce. Marshall and his wife, Peggy, have four children and are members of Liberty Baptist Church, where is he is active on the Deacon Board. He is also Department Out-reach leader and sings in the choir.

Council Increases Liability Insurance

The Appomattox Town Council voted to increase its general liability insurance Monday night at their regular meeting.

Richard Burke with J. A. Burke & Company, Inc. appeared before council to assist with answers to questions concerning coverage.

In view of the fact that council felt that town coverage was not sufficient to protect town police, town officials and all town employees against wrongful acts, they voted to increase coverage from $300,000 bodily injury and $25,000 property damage to $1 million single limit (bodily and/or property) to include police liability, also. The general liability coverage has endorsement to provide protection for town police, town officials, and all town employees from any and all acts of wrongdoing.

Council felt that it was unfortunate that they had to increase insurance coverage to this extent but as the public so readily accepts lawsuits it is necessary to be fully protected even though the tax paying public ends up having to pay costs.

Council was informed that all new street signs, the white on green reflectorized signs, have been received and all old black on white street signs will be replaced in an effort to help spruce up the town.

In other action, council designated Commerce Street, Atwood Street, Harrell Street and Ethel Street as the streets they would like to get into the Virginia Department of Highways System.

Council granted a request from Lewis McDearmon, Jr. for a loading zone at L P Gas Appliances on South Church Street.

Council also contracted to have Dominion Tank and Iron Company clean and paint the 100,000 gallon water storage tank at a cost of $3,160.00.

The need to revise the Town Code was discussed and council authorized W. S. Slagle, Town Manager, to look into the matter and recommend course of action.

With regard to the Downtown Redevelopment Project, council has completed five of nine property acquisitions and are targeting August 1, 1976 as date to let bids. The design for street and parking lot is underway now.

In final action taken by council, W. S. Slagle was appointed Clerk to Council.

$34,000 In Unexpected Aid Allocated For Board

The Appomattox County Board of Supervisors got some unexpected "good news" Friday when they learned the Appomattox County School System would be receiving $34,000 more than had been expected this year in basic school aid.

Lloyd Walton, Division Superintendent of Appomattox County Schools, told the board that the additional funds would enable the school system to make purchases and pay bills which otherwise would have been postponed until next year. The $34,000 in state funds came from a surplus in the state departments of vocational education and special education.

Governor Mills E. Godwin's 5 per cent cut in basic school aid made in September of 1975 cost our county about $50,000. However, the county experienced an unexpected enrollment increase which offset the cut by about $32,000.

The $34,000 due to be received apparently will offset the remainder of the five per cent cut.

Walton said the funds would be used to purchase two school bus chassis at a cost of $12,000. The remainder of the funds will go for paint and summer maintenance materials, and to pay light and gas bills.

The federally-funded school lunch program in the county has been allocated an unexpected $10,000, also, so informed Supt. Walton.

In other business, the supervisors approved a hospitalization plan for county employees through Blue Cross-Blue Shield. The board voted to pay the entire annual premium of the insurance for the employees but not for their families. The annual premium was set at $4,563.

The board authorized William Slagle, special projects secretary to the board, to solicit bids for a new county garbage truck. Slagle estimated the truck cost would be approximately $50,000.

J. E. Richardson, Sheriff of Appomattox County, asked board members to change the ordinance regulating county auto stickers. He requested that the ordinance be amended to allow the sheriff's department to issue tickets to owners of any automobiles lacking a county sticker.

The current law only allows ticketing of vehicles being operated on highways. Richardson said some persons in the county were failing to buy stickers, and then they were driving at nights.

No action was taken on this request as the board felt it should consult with William S. Kerr, Appomattox County's Commonwealth Attorney.

Pair Abducted By Armed Man Arrested In Appomattox

An elderly woman and her daughter were abducted and a man robbed and bound in Evington Saturday, precipitating an intense police search which ended with an arrest made in Appomattox.

Investigator E. J. Hall of the Campbell County Sheriff's Department said none of the victims was harmed and a host of charges was being filed against a suspect, Richard L. Baldwin, 31, of Roanoke.

Hall said details still were sketchy but described the incident as follows.

Mrs. Sally Dowdy, 84, and Marian Dowdy, 50, were sitting on the front porch of their home on Rt. 682 at Evington with Roy Little of Evington about 6:15 p.m.

A Negro man apparently had entered the dwelling from the rear and came onto the porch from inside the house with a shotgun.

The man forced the women and Little go to into the house. Little was robbed and bound.

The man then made the women get into their car and the vehicle left with Marion Dowdy behind the wheel.

Little managed to free himself and notify authorities.

A description of the car then was radioed to surrounding police.

About an hour later, Appomattox County Sheriff Gene Richardson and Deputy Sheriff Richard Phelps spotted the car at the intersection of Rt. 460 and Rt. 131 at the Appomattox town limits.

Richardson said he followed the auto on Rt. 460, awaiting additional officers to arrive, but decided to stop the vehicle when it started to turn off on Rt. 695.

The sheriff said he and Phelps made the arrest and freed the women without incident. The suspect was armed with the shotgun and a butcher knife, he said.
